Chris Wilson Promoted to Public Relations Manager

INDIANAPOLIS – Bose Public Affairs Group LLC is pleased to announce that Chris Wilson has been promoted to public relations manager at the government relations and strategic communications firm.

Wilson focuses on media and public relations, strategic communications and social media strategy for the firm's clients. He recently was part of a project, which was recognized with a Diamond Award from the Public Relations Society of America's East Central District.

"Chris excels at delivering excellent client service, and he has proven to be an incredible asset to our public relations team," said Roger Harvey, principal and managing director of strategic communications at Bose Public Affairs Group. "We are confident that Chris will continue to exceed expectations, and we look forward to watching him grow with us."

Wilson joined Bose Public Affairs Group in 2016 as a public relations account executive. Prior to joining the firm, he was an executive producer at WISH-TV in Indianapolis. Wilson led a team of more than 20 journalists to execute a five hour broadcast. In addition to his daily role of overseeing the morning news program, Wilson was responsible for crisis management and social media strategy during the critical early morning time period.

He is active in the community, serving on the Ransburg YMCA Center Advisory Board and volunteering with the Alzheimer's Association Greater Indiana Chapter. He is a graduate of Ball State University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in telecommunications.
